

Grall Asks Calhoun's Co-operation For Enforcement of Law in Lorain

FIRE UNDERMINING ROAD THREATENS BRIDGE

DAVIES SENTENCE AFFIRMED BY COURT OF APPEALS

False Entry Count Is Fully Sustained

(Special to Chronicle-Telegram)

CLEVELAND, May 3.—The court appeals of the 8th district sitting at Cleveland, has affirmed the decision of the Lorain county court on appeal in the conviction of Walter Davies, former cashier of the City Bank of Lorain, who was charged with making a false statement with intent to deceive a state bank examiner.

The opinion was sent to County Clerk Williams at Elyria, this morning, and it went into the case detail on all the grounds of error in the trial of the case complained by attorneys for the defendant. The opinion was written by Judge Vickery. Judge Washburn Elyria, did not sit in the case. It was taken by Judge Judd, of the fourth district, and Judge Ingerson, as associate. The opinion states in substance that the claim that when the jury acquitted Davies on the first count, the indictment, charging perjury at it in substance effectively disposed of the second count, which charged making false entries, is a legal error. The court should have ordered a judgment of acquittal on the second count, the court said they could not see the logic of the claim. "The offense of perjury and of making false entries are not in any way connected but are separate and distinct offenses recognized by two distinct statutes. One offense is not included with the other."

BAIRD AND PEEBLES WANT TO KNOW MORE ABOUT THAT BOILER

LORAIN—It looks like the question of who is to blame for the acceptance and installation of an inferior boiler at No. 4 fire station will be settled soon.

City Council last night voted to investigate the matter, when President of Council Joseph Jameson appointed Councilmen Peebles, Alexander and Parker on a committee and directed them to make an exhaustive investigation and report as soon as possible to council their findings.

It was at Councilman Thomas Peebles' request that the investigation was brought about. "We have heard a lot about this boiler lately. Someone blames someone else, and there you are. I suggest a committee be appointed to investigate the conditions surrounding the acceptance of the boiler in order to learn who is responsible."

"If there was any negligence on the part of city officials, we want to know who they are."

Mr. Peebles then offered a resolution, seconded by John Baird, that the committee be named,

DETECTIVES TO RECEIVE THEIR PAY VOUCHERS

LORAIN—"I will sign the pay vouchers for salaries of the new detectives appointed by Chief of Police A. A. King," declared Safety Director Harry Shift last night, after receiving a decision from City Solicitor C. E. Van Deusen that the police chief had the legal right to appoint new detectives and to demote the old members of the force.

At the time of Chief King's appointments of the new detectives, shortly after he took office, Shift declared that he would not sign their pay vouchers because he did not believe King had the right to make the appointments. Shift termed the appointment "promotions," under the state law, and until he was authorized otherwise, by an opinion of the City Solicitor should do so.

In his answer to Shift last night, the city solicitor declared that the police chief was entirely within his rights in making the appointments. Van Deusen declared that the city ordinance empowering the chief of police to appoint and demote detectives is valid.

CITY ELECTRICIAN COLLECTS $155 IN APRIL

LORAIN—Charles Bogard, city electrician, in his report for the month of April, presented to Safety Director Harry Shift yesterday, shows that $147.50 was collected by him for the month for permits issued and $8 for extra inspections made.

The electricians report shows 210 inspections, 146 meter tests and 46 extra inspections, as reported to city council last night.

TO PUT ON GYMNASIUM CLASSES EVERY MONDAY

LORAIN—George Hildebrandt, community secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will conduct a gymnasium class at the Civic Center Chamber of Commerce gymnasium, Monday night of each week for the remaining part of the season for members of the Kiwanis club exclusive.

An athletic program that will include scores of various events have been outlined by Hildebrandt.

BUTTER AND EGGS DOWN

LORAIN—Creamery butter was retailing here this morning at 40 cents, while a few stores were selling it at 37 1/2 and 38 cents.

Fresh eggs were retailing at 25 cents and there was little demand for cold storage product.

This is the cheapest butter and eggs have sold here in many years. Eggs three years ago were selling at 80 cents and two years ago at about 60 cents while last spring they were demanding 50 and 55 cents and hard to get. Restaurants are charging the same old war prices for eggs.

Butter is also selling cheaper than for many years. It was retailing for more than twice the present price several months ago.

Some dealers, this morning indicated that it is probable that buttermilk may still drop a few cents. There are plenty of eggs in the market, and as one dealer said that owing to the low price the demand is rather light, paradoxical as it may appear.

MUST BE GOING TO BEAT THEIR WAY

LORAIN—Who has got the big drum stolen from the Century Park dancing pavilion last night?

Thieves, police believe are boys, entered the hall last night and after damaging the piano, stole the big drum.

Police are working on a clue which they believe will bring about the recovery of the drum and the capture of the youthful thieves.

Mayor Indicates That Other Official Heads May Drop in Basket

"Spasmodic Raids Will Not Be Tolerated," Declares Executive to Chief Walker and Mr. Calhoun—"Advocates" Tireless Campaigning Against Law Violators

LORAIN—"I have this morning written letters to Chief of Police King and City Prosecutor Calhoun, advising them that I expect their co-operation in enforcing the law, which is the text of the communication to Governor Davis in reply to his letter received by me yesterday," was the statement given out shortly before noon today by Mayor William F. Grall, relative to the communication he received late yesterday afternoon from the governor, in which he declared in part that there is "an intolerable situation indicating a gross laxity with respect to the enforcement of laws in your city. * * * I will therefore suspend state action in the Lorain case for a time sufficient to give you every opportunity to remedy conditions, failing which, the ing such steps as will insure proper enforcement of the law in your city."

Mayor Grall, in further discussing the governor's letter, said that the law reads that not only the mayor, but any officer in the municipality may be charged by the governor if he fails to enforce the law, and that he expected the co-operation of all officers and city officials in carrying out the request of the governor. When chief of police was asked if he had any comment to make upon the letter received from the mayor, he said: "You'll have to see the mayor for my statement; I have nothing to say—no comment to make. The chief was on his way

SWITCH BILL PASSES IN RECORD TIME THROUGH PERSISTENCY OF SENATOR BURKE AND SAM HAIGH

COLUMBUS, May 3.—The two bills fathered by Senator Burke and urged by Lorain county were passed in the closing hours of the legislature Sunday.

One of these bills was the one providing for a Municipal court for the city of Lorain.

The other one would empower the county commissioners of any county to build or cause to be built a switch in a county to the warehouse of the county. This will save the counties much money as it will enable the commissioners to unload the cars right at the county premises, saving in time of workmen and of expenditure for cars.

This bill was gotten through the senate almost in record time, Frank

BURGLARS ENTER TWO HOMES AND SECURE HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS IN LOOT FROM ONE

LORAIN—Burglars last night entered two homes in the western section of the city and secured hundreds of dollars worth of loot.

The first place entered was the home of J. T. Lightfoot, 1420 Lake view Boulevard. The burglars broke a window near the latch on the rear door and reached inside and opened the door.

Mr. and Mrs. Lightfoot were absent from home. The entire house was ransacked and the burglars made away with jewelry, clothes and silverware to the value of several hundred dollars.

The theft was reported to police late last night after the Lightfoot's returned to their home. No clues were left behind by the housebreakers.

Following the burglary of the Lightfoot home, the robbers, by the same methods used in entering the Lightfoot house, broke into the home of G. Cooper, 826 Allison avenue.

At the Cooper home the burglars were evidently frightened away before they could secure any loot.

SOME THINGS SEEN IN —A "DRY" COMMUNITY

LORAIN—A miniature menagerie was seen last yesterday afternoon in the "loop" when a lone hen, accompanied by several English sparrows, were feeding; a cat came creeping along, then a "tramp" dog stopped to have a look at the feline, at which juncture a man leading a sad-face cow passed by followed closely by a negro driving a mule and a prancing horse came trotting up the street, scaring all the animals and birds away, but his muleship continued to jog along, looking down upon the prancing steed, while the aged colored man turned a kindly eye upon the palpit.

UNION PRINTERS ASK PUBLIC TO LOOK FOR LABEL

LORAIN—Following the walk-out in two local job print shops yesterday morning by union men because the proprietors refused to sign the new wage scale in demanding that the working hours be reduced from 43 to 44 a week that they may have a half holiday on Saturday afternoon, the following circular was distributed yesterday afternoon at the instigation of the Lorain Typographical Union, No. 409, headed, "The Struggle for 44 Hour Week Is On."

"Every father and mother of the children who are to be the fathers and mothers of the coming generations should join heartily in speech and sentiment to support the movement that has just been inaugurated. The World War is over. We put it over. The fight is now on for living conditions that will line up with what our forefathers fought for—through 8 long bloody years—in the establishment in this country of 'The Union of the 13 Original Colonies.'"

"Be sure to know that the Union Label is on everything you use. Look for it and insist on having it."

"DeVeny & McCahan, The Ronay Printing Company and M. M. Barto have all signed up and are entitled to the use of the Label."

"We leave it to your good judgment as to whom you will patronize for your printing requirements. 'Line up now for the rights that our forefathers fought for—the right of life and happiness and the pursuit of happiness.'"

The two shops that have not signed the new scale are the Lorain Printing company—the largest plant of its kind in the city—and the Service Printing company.

Proprietors of these two shops declare that they are "not conducting non-union shops, but open shops."

Typographical union officials have asked the public to see that all printed matter turned out in Lorain bears the union label.

It is said that the proprietors of the two establishments where the walkout occurred are members of the union and that they will be asked to surrender their working cards, declared a union official last night, unless they sign the scale.

AMENDS ORDINANCE TO PERMIT VETS' SHOWS

LORAIN—An amendment of section 3 of ordinance number 2100 passed February 4, 1918, to regulate and license exhibitions, theaters, motion picture shows, carnivals and entertainments and other exhibitions and amusements, was last night passed by city council.

The amended ordinance was passed in order to allow the Spanish War Veterans and the American Legion to hold a carnival and indoor circus in June, without the paying of the usual license of $100 per day.

HOSPITAL LIGHT COMING

LORAIN—Councilman John Baird last night, at the council meeting, asked the Penfield Safety Director what he had done about the safety zone lights at St. Joseph's hospital. Shift said the lights would be burning tomorrow night.

MAYOR TO BORROW $6,000

LORAIN—City council last night passed an ordinance authorizing the mayor and the city auditor to borrow $6,000 in anticipation of special assessments for the sanitary sewer in Caroline avenue.

SEWER FOR PENFIELD AVE.

LORAIN—City council last night passed a resolution declaring it necessary to improve the Penfield avenue sewer district No. 4 by construction of a lateral storm water sewer in Lexington avenue and adjacent alleys.

UISTER LEADER WOULD CONFER WITH DE VALERA

LONDON, May 3.—Sir James Craig, leader of the Ulster unionists, announces today that he would enter the council of Ireland and propose a conference with Eamon De Valera, president of the Irish republic, to discuss "matters of benefit to Ireland."

Engineer is Hoping To Save Structure

RED CROSS TO ORGANIZE HOME CLASSES HERE

LORAIN—Plans were made last evening by officials of the Lorain Chapter, American Red Cross, for the enrollment and teaching of several classes in home training in the city during the next few weeks.

The meeting, held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, was for the purpose of establishing and organizing classes and was attended by Mrs. Cora Whitmore, John Gard, Mrs. Gertrude Ashbolt, Miss Mary Ferguson, Miss Helen L. Felkner, George C. Farkell, Mrs. John Hildebrandt and Dr. D. Thomas and Rev. Hauger.

Miss Helen G. Felkner, American Red cross nurse who has been detailed to Lorain to teach the home training classes, last night spoke before her first class of 15 members at St. Joseph's hospital. This class will receive the first lesson at the hospital on Thursday evening.

At the meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, local Red Cross officials made plans for a public campaign to have young mothers and young women interested in the courses to be given here. The cost of the course is $3 and is to cover a period of eight weeks, with two lessons given each week.

Announcements of the training here will be made in all churches next Sunday and in the schools today.

Every girl over 16 years of age will be eligible for membership in the classes.

The first class is to be conducted from the hospital while arrangements are being made to establish a second school here.

PATROL IS ACCEPTED, SHIFT INTERROGATED

LORAIN—Safety Director Harry Shift last night for the first time at the city council meeting reported that he had already accepted the new Carroll company patrol wagon which has been tested by the police during the past several weeks.

Shift made the declaration when Councilman Campbell asked point blank: "Mr. Shift, have you accepted the new police patrol?"

Shift said it had been accepted last week.

Councilman Thomas Peebles then said to Shift:

"I understand that chassis was driven from San Francisco to Lorain before you bought it."

"I did not know that," replied Shift.

"Well then do you know whether it was a new or second-hand machine?" asked Peebles.

"It looked new," replied Shift.

MAYOR WAS ABSENT

LORAIN—For the first time in months, Mayor William F. Grall was absent from the city council meeting last night.

TWENTY WITNESSES AWAITING TURN AT LORAIN GRAFT PROBI

ELYRIA—The special grand jury investigating conditions at Lorain continues to be the center of attraction at the court house. The lobby outside the juror's room is filled with witnesses waiting to be called and nearly all of them are foreigners.

Those who have testified up to date are:

John Vaszil, soft drink proprietor.

William Ashbolt, newspaper man.

Vendel Ashbolt.

Ethel Sattari, soft drink proprietor.

LORAIN—City Engineer Calmer Miller will late today investigate the falling in of several yards of concrete work along the west entrance to the Thirty-first street bridge, undermined by fire for the last two years.

This announcement was made by Miller in his office at the city hall this morning, after he admitted that the caving, which occurred yesterday, had been reported to him.

Following the investigation, Miller will be in a position to advise city council as to what action to take to save the big bridge, built at a cost of $200,000 a few years ago, which is endangered by the fire which undermined the west approach and is gradually eating its way toward the large structure over Black river.

The action taken by Engineer Miller this morning is the first to be taken by local authorities. The land which is now undermined by the fire, is just outside the city limits, while the bridge, which is in danger of toppling into Black river in a few months if the fire is not extinguished, lies in the city of Lorain.

It is in the hope of saving this bridge that the city engineer is taking up the matter.

The road which forms the approach to the big bridge has been undermined by a raging fire for the past two years. Many methods of extinguishing the blaze have been tried by city and county authorities during the last several months, but each proved impractical.

The roadway is built of ashes, placed by the National Tube Company. The surface has been covered, by the county, with slag. It is the ashes which, over two years ago, caught fire.

Daily the heat and fire increases and gradually the roadway approaching the big bridge has been eaten away.

On the south side of the road, where the Cleveland and Southwestern railway tracks run parallel with the roadway, the tracks have sunken perhaps ten feet in the last year. Ties under the rails have been burned away and the tracks at points are twisted.

Residents living in the vicinity of the big bridge say that in a short time these tracks will be tumbling over the embankment into Black river.

TO REPAIR THREE FIRE ALARM BOXES AT ONCE

LORAIN—Safety Director Harry Shift was last night authorized by city council to enter into a contract with the Lorain County Electric Company for the repairing of three fire alarm boxes ruined several weeks ago when wires belonging to each were dropped on city wires.

Shift said the repair work cost $300 and that the company will pay 50 per cent of the cost.

WARM GREETING'S

LORAIN—Safety Director Harry Shift was last night talking to a "friend" in the council rooms at City Hall.

Harry was evidently trying to prove to his listener that he was friendly toward him.

"To show that I like you," said Harry, "I hope you get along a hundred years—on crutches."

There are still some twenty witnesses called today who are waiting for their testimony, and it is the opinion of court officials that practically every soft drink vendor in Lorain is to be called as a witness.

Ireland Presents Plea to Congress

(International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, May 3.—A statement of the purpose of the Irish people to resist Great Britain until the Irish people are given the right to determine for themselves how they shall be governed, passed by the Dail Eireann in January, was laid before the Congress of the United States today.

"The Irish people claim no more than their right as a nation to determine freely for themselves how they shall be governed," said the statement of the Dail Eireann, the legislature of the Irish republic.

"We, the elected spokesmen of the Irish people, elected by the Irish people, and government, all making to witness that our people have ever been ready to welcome peace with England on that basis.

"On no other basis is peace possible. We shall not surrender our national right—nor will we force it on you.

"You the representatives of the sister nations, cannot, we feel, be insensitive to the issue."

"The text of the statement was as follows:

"To the elected representatives of the people of the United States of America:

"We, the elected representatives of Ireland, recognizing in you the elected representatives in Congress of the American people, our brethren in the common effort to hasten the day when the nations may dwell together in justice and in harmony, have the honor to greet you and to address you.

"We feel certain that the struggle of our people—the people of Ireland—against the aggression of England is not passing unobserved by you. We covet your esteem as we would value your sympathy and support, and fearful lest you be misled by the widespread, persistent and insidious propaganda of falsehood through which England seeks to create prejudice against us—distorting the character of the contest—we hasten to lay before you facts so that, correctly informed, you may be able to judge justly.

"The nation which we represent enjoyed for over a thousand years the life of an independent sovereign state among the states of Europe. Then a neighboring nation—England, which had received the benefits of civilization and education first from our hands, lost to gratitude and honor and burning lust for our possessions, burst in upon us as a conscienceless invader, and through the course of many generations strove to subvert our polity, annihilate our language and our culture, suppress our industry, ruin our agriculture, steal our trade and commerce, deprive us of the advantages of our geographical position, cut us off from the ancient intercourse with other peoples, rob us of our revenues and erase our name from the roll of nations.

"Failing to achieve these ends after centuries of criminal effort, this nation entered into solemn treaties acknowledging our national independence and contracting to respect it for all time, but this meant merely until our national defenses were dismantled. Then treaties and contracts were treated as scraps of paper and the compact treacherously and bloodily violated.

"All the resources of a powerful and ruthless tyranny have been employed since in a desperate attempt to utterly destroy us as a nation. In the course of a little over a century we have been robbed of wealth amounting to an empire's ransom, while within living memory a population of eight and a half millions, which at a normal rate of increase would have given us today a population of some seventeen millions, has been reduced by enemy acts to four millions—a crime unique among civilized nations.

"Our island is surpassingly fertile, generously endowed by nature with every advantage and facility for industry, for trade and for commerce capable of supporting in happiness and prosperity twenty millions of souls—yet only last year it was publicly declared by the official head of the usurping English government that it was the considered policy of that government to banish from our country the young and strong, the owner of the four millions that yet remain.

"The Irish people have consistently resisted this infamous tyranny to the utmost of their power. Almost every generation has witnessed at least one armed uprising and when the people were too weak to resist in arms they never ceased to make clear their hatred of the rule of the foreigner. Their oppressor's declarations that the nation's settlement of Ireland is guilty of 'disloyalty' to English rule has been a constant acknowledgment of this attitude. The attitude and the desire of the present generation has been made manifest beyond question.

"On December 14, 1918, mindful of the principles professed by the government of England during the great war and seeing in the application of these principles a ready and a just means of arriving at a peaceful and final settlement of their own centuries' struggle, the Irish people declared by an overwhelming majority at the polls for an independent Irish republic.

"Acting on the mandate thus expressly given by this national plebiscite carried out under the forms and laws prescribed by England herself, the people's elected representatives assembled on January 21, 1919, formally proclaimed the nation's independence and declared the Republic of Ireland duly established.

"This legitimate application of the principle of national self-determination, this peaceful and orderly exercise of their moral and democratic right by the Irish people was met by the British government with an immediate and murderous exercise of brutal force. Troops and engines of destruction for four years had been engaged on the continent of Europe in the cause of the rights of small nations, it was said, and the fundamental principles of democracy, were rushed to Ireland and used to trample on those very rights and to strangle that very principle in the name of which they had been enrolled and employed.

"The reign of intensified military terrorism that was thus instituted, although rigorously persisted in, did not intimidate the voters at the ensuing municipal and rural elections for local governing bodies. The homes of the people were raided systematically by day and by night, individual electors were murdered by bayonet and bullet, men were taken by the thousands and dragged off to English jails, the fears of women and children were mercilessly played upon but the terror failed. The year instead of weakening, increased the strength of the Irish people's determination and the republican representation showed an increase of 15 per cent on the previous elections, though the system of proportional representation had been applied with the express design of reducing it.

"To this further and peaceful constitutional action on our part, the foreign usurping government replied with a still fiercer and more vicious brutality.

"The national, political, cultural and industrial associates of the people were proscribed, and membership deemed a crime. The right of public assembly was abolished and the press gagged. The elected representatives of the nation were declared a criminal body. All of their number, with two exceptions, were seized from time to time and imprisoned in English jails, where two have already met their deaths.

"For over two years the people of Ireland bore patiently these ever-increasing burdens and persecutions without committing single act of violence, either in self-defense or in reprisal. In that period thousands were torn from their homes and cast into prison, many died as a result of prison treatment and seven unarmed citizens were willfully murdered by the armed agents of the English government, which openly incited the murderers and encouraged the murderers with rewards and promotion.

"But the patience of the people at last became exhausted. Abandoned as it seemed by the world, they turned to defend themselves as best they could. The British government then put aside every restraint of civilization and deliberately resolved to proceed with regard for life or property. So vile was the policy projected that the regular troops could not be relied upon to carry it out. The expedition from the jails, however, and the desperate back from the trenches, in whose breast the savagery of the late war had extinguished the last sparks of humanity, could be depended upon to have few qualms in dealing with their victims, and to cause little embarrassment to those in high authority amongst their employers by any nice regard for nominal discipline. A special force of these fiends was accordingly embodied. Allured by the prospect of an easy prey and unlimited loot, they were gathered together from every corner of Britain, and operating with the whole British army in their rear as a cover and a protection, they were let loose upon an unarmed and defenseless populace.

"An orgy of murder and robbery began. Neither age nor sex nor profession was respected. Old men of eighty and little children of eight alike and crippled boys, mothers and wives, even anointed ministers of God, were indiscriminately murdered—the bread-winner before the eyes of his family and the mother with the child at her breast at the cottage door. Houses, offices, workshops, factories and creameries were plundered and destroyed. Towns and villages were sacked and burned down. The home of the farmer and the home of the artisan, the shop, the store, the office were looted and given to the flames.

"Whole districts were devastated and the produce destroyed in the hope of famishing the population. Individual citizens were held up at the point of the revolver or bayonet and robbed on the public streets, and while these outrages were being perpetrated every act of self-defense on the part of the victims was advertised by English propagandists as a crime. The English government's jails are being filled with our countrymen, some of whom have been murdered therein, and others put to the torture. New capital offenses are being created. The simple possession of arms is a charge on which several Irishmen have been executed. Prominent citizens are carried as hostages by English troops in their expeditions against our people, and their lives forfeited if the unit with which they are traveling be molested. The elected representatives of the nation, the mayors and the presidents of our municipal and urban councils, the chairmen of our county and rural councils—our chief officers on whom devolve the direction of national and local administration are made objects of special attack, the uniform purpose being to prevent constructive legislation and to bring our domestic public affairs into chaos. Such, for example, was the purpose that lately prompted the murder of one Lord Mayor of Cork, the imprisonment until death of another Lord Mayor of Cork and the imprisonment until his health was permanently impaired of the Lord Mayor of Dublin.

"This demoralized war upon our community is being urged with no other provocation than our insistence on our national right and our firm adherence to a principle which even the demon's masters themselves have pretended to serve.

"The Irish people claim no more than their right as a nation to determine freely for themselves, how they shall be governed. We, their elected spokesmen—their elected parliament and government—call mankind to witness that our people have ever been ready to welcome peace with England on that just basis.

"On no other basis is peace possible. We shall not surrender our national right, nor will we force it on you.

"Our cause is the common cause of humankind. To that cause we have pledged ourselves and our people to remain faithful unto death.

"You, the representatives of the sister nations, cannot, we feel, be insensitive to the issue.

"Adopted at the January session of Dail Eireann, 1921.

"Signed: Eamon de Valera, president; Arthur Griffith and sixty-three others, all deputies in Dail Eireann."

Houses, offices, workshops, factories and creameries were plundered and destroyed. Towns and villages were sacked and burned down. The home of the farmer and the home of the artisan, the shop, the store, the office were looted and given to the flames.

"Whole districts were devastated and the produce destroyed in the hope of famishing the population. Individual citizens were held up at the point of the revolver or bayonet and robbed on the public streets, and while these outrages were being perpetrated every act of self-defense on the part of the victims was advertised by English propagandists as a crime. The English government's jails are being filled with our countrymen, some of whom have been murdered therein, and others put to the torture. New capital offenses are being created. The simple possession of arms is a charge on which several Irishmen have been executed. Prominent citizens are carried as hostages by English troops in their expeditions against our people, and their lives forfeited if the unit with which they are traveling be molested. The elected representatives of the nation, the mayors and the presidents of our municipal and urban councils, the chairmen of our county and rural councils—our chief officers on whom devolve the direction of national and local administration are made objects of special attack, the uniform purpose being to prevent constructive legislation and to bring our domestic public affairs into chaos. Such, for example, was the purpose that lately prompted the murder of one Lord Mayor of Cork, the imprisonment until death of another Lord Mayor of Cork and the imprisonment until his health was permanently impaired of the Lord Mayor of Dublin.

"This demoralized war upon our community is being urged with no other provocation than our insistence on our national right and our firm adherence to a principle which even the demon's masters themselves have pretended to serve.

"The Irish people claim no more than their right as a nation to determine freely for themselves, how they shall be governed. We, their elected spokesmen—their elected parliament and government—call mankind to witness that our people have ever been ready to welcome peace with England on that just basis.

"On no other basis is peace possible. We shall not surrender our national right, nor will we force it on you.

"Our cause is the common cause of humankind. To that cause we have pledged ourselves and our people to remain faithful unto death.

"You, the representatives of the sister nations, cannot, we feel, be insensitive to the issue.

"The national, political, cultural and industrial associates of the people were proscribed, and membership deemed a crime. The right of public assembly was abolished and the press gagged. The elected representatives of the nation were declared a criminal body. All of their number, with two exceptions, were seized from time to time and imprisoned in English jails, where two have already met their deaths.

"For over two years the people of Ireland bore patiently these ever-increasing burdens and persecutions without committing single act of violence, either in self-defense or in reprisal. In that period thousands were torn from their homes and cast into prison, many died as a result of prison treatment and seven unarmed citizens were willfully murdered by the armed agents of the English government, which openly incited the murderers and encouraged the murderers with rewards and promotion.

"But the patience of the people at last became exhausted. Abandoned as it seemed by the world, they turned to defend themselves as best they could. The British government then put aside every restraint of civilization and deliberately resolved to proceed with regard for life or property. So vile was the policy projected that the regular troops could not be relied upon to carry it out. The expedition from the jails, however, and the desperate back from the trenches, in whose breast the savagery of the late war had extinguished the last sparks of humanity, could be depended upon to have few qualms in dealing with their victims, and to cause little embarrassment to those in high authority amongst their employers by any nice regard for nominal discipline. A special force of these fiends was accordingly embodied. Allured by the prospect of an easy prey and unlimited loot, they were gathered together from every corner of Britain, and operating with the whole British army in their rear as a cover and a protection, they were let loose upon an unarmed and defenseless populace.

"An orgy of murder and robbery began. Neither age nor sex nor profession was respected. Old men of eighty and little children of eight alike and crippled boys, mothers and wives, even anointed ministers of God, were indiscriminately murdered—the bread-winner before the eyes of his family and the mother with the child at her breast at the cottage door. Houses, offices, workshops, factories and creameries were plundered and destroyed. Towns and villages were sacked and burned down. KIWANIS CLUBS MAY BACK RELIEF ACTION

CLEVELAND, May 3.—The International Kiwanis Club may go on record at its annual convention here June 20-24 endorsing the three big movements designed to bring relief to famine-stricken China and countries of the Near East and Europe.

The executive committee of the organization has just sent out bulletins to the 500 Kiwanis clubs in Canada and the United States, recommending that the individual clubs, located in as many cities, give favorable consideration to the China Famine Fund, European Relief and the Near East Relief. It is likely that the international convention here may make plans for the active support of these three movements. Fully 8,000 delegates and visitors, coming from practically every city of the North American continent, will attend the Cleveland convention.

Four-Year-Old Makes Ocean Trip Alone

Smiling coyly and waving a cheery good-by to her dad on the pier, Miss Phyllis Tocque, four years old, of Louisville, Kentucky, recently sailed from New York for England to visit her grandparents. Phyllis' mother died last year, and her father could not leave his business to accompany her. However, he saw her put safely aboard the steamer. It was an old story to the little traveler from Louisville, however, for this is her third trip across.

UP IN TIME TO CATCH WORMS

(International News Service.) CHICAGO, May 3.—Chicago is now a "10 o'clock town," so far as its juvenile population is concerned, at least.

The City Council has passed an ordinance reviving the old curfew law and hereafter all youngsters less than sixteen years old who are unaccompanied by parents or guardian must be off the streets by 10 p. m.

The ordinance provides penalties for parents or guardians who permit their children under sixteen to be on the streets after the curfew hour.

THE LAST STRAW

(International News Service.) CHICAGO, May 3.—Lloyds of London are noted for a willingness to take a chance on anything. But the theft of automobiles in Chicago, they say, is almost a sure thing and they refuse to bet against it.

Holders of Lloyds' automobile theft insurance policies in Chicago have been given ten-days' notice of cancellation of their policies.

"The experience of the underwriters on automobile business in Chicago has been such that they wish to terminate all their liabilities on this class of business," agents of the company stated.

TRIPLE CALVES HEALTHY

PERFECT STUDENT HONORED

COLUMBUS—"Tee" Young, a prominent athlete and pronounced by judges as the "most perfect man" at Ohio State university, has won another honor. The United States government has presented Young, who is a freshman, with a distinguished service medal in recognition of his services in the marine corps at San Domingo.

When asked how he won the medal, this modest student evaded the question. "All I know about it is what the government said it was for—'meritorious service'—whatever that means."

ASK EARLIER MAILING

BUYRUS—Patrons of the post office are being advised by Chas. F. Vollmer, city postmaster, to mail their letters early on account of the congestion caused by late mail matter swamping the dispatching clerks of the postoffice.

MANY GRADUATES TO TEACH

MARTINS FERRY—The local high school graduating class of 63 will furnish 16 teachers. All are girls. A poll of the class disclosed that 12 have decided to teach because they like the work, while two said that their purpose in teaching is to earn a living. Of those who refused to teach, one stated that "crank parents and bad kids" will keep him out of the profession. Six declared the salaries were too small. Only four said they will go to college.

Take It In Time !

Do you know that by far the larger number of the common ailments of women are not surgical ones; that is they are not caused by any serious displacement, tumor, growth, or other marked change?

Do you know that these common ailments produce symptoms that are very much like those caused by the more serious surgical conditions?

Do you know that many women and young girls suffer needlessly from such ailments? More than that, they endanger their health by allowing their ailments to continue and develop into something serious.

If treated early, that is, within a reasonable time after the first warning symptoms appear, serious conditions may often be averted. Therefore, at the first appearance of such symptoms as periodic pains, irregularities, irritability and nervousness, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken. It is prepared with accuracy and cleanliness from medicinal plants. It contains no narcotics nor poisonous drugs, and can be taken with perfect safety.

The Vegetable Compound acts on the conditions which bring about these symptoms in a gentle and efficient manner. The persistent use of it shows itself in the disappearance, one after another, of the disagreeable symptoms. In a word, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound acts as a natural restorative, relieving the present distress and preventing more serious trouble.

Revelations of a Wife

Why Madge "Dared" a Question to Lillian.

I HAVE never tasted anything more delicious than the sauciness which Marion poured on pointed sticks over a rather her-camp fire, and the coffee which Lillian expertly brewed. She had disdained the suggestion of Katie's coffee in a vacuum bottle as being "unacceptably civilized." Katie had provided sandwiches, devilled eggs, olives and Marion's favorite little cakes, and we did not feel justice to them, but the flavor to food cooked over a wood fire in the open air which is never equalled elsewhere.

"Talk about being gorged to repletion," Lillian said when we had finished. "Whoever first invented that mouth-milling phrase must have had me in mind. I don't feel as if I wanted to move for a week."

We had taken the robes and cushions from the car and were stretched out luxuriously under the budding trees. That is, Lillian and I were resting. Madge was industriously building up her fire, putting water to boil in a small kettle which she had brought along.

"I'm going to clear up everything myself," she announced enthusiastically. "But the way Uncle Robert taught me. It's very good training for being a scout when I can find a troop to join." She added, with a little rueful side glance at her mother.

Lillian explained in a low voice as Marion busied herself with the dishes: "Madge really is old enough to be the scoutmaster of the troop, but—well, in the city I can't have her away from me on the little hikes the way she likes to take. So I've told her that I thought she ought to wait until she is older. But her heart is so set on it that I think if I find a permanent place in the country, and if there is a scout organization there I shall permit her to join. A lot of many 'ifs,' but I hope they will be attainable, for she does love woodcraft so."

Lillian Weakening?

Madge came into her brave eyes, and I knew what had brought it there, the thought of the man who had taught Marion woodcraft, Robert Savarin.

Looked at her intently, and dared suddenly to put the question that had trembled upon my lips until she had said, "Lillian, have you never weakened in your determination to shut happiness away from you and Robert, and—Madge?"

She put up her hand quickly, a playful gesture, as though she were warding off a blow.

"Don't, Madge," she said, but the protest was a feeble one.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I have been going with a young man for a year or more. He tells me he loves me. My family seems to care for him, but he's not a good dresser. I'm 18 years old, and he wants to get married. What shall I do? GRAY EYES

GRAY EYES: I think you had better put off all idea of marriage until you are able to value a man for something more than the clothes he wears. Marriage is a serious proposition, founded on the deepest and holiest emotions of life, and if you don't know this, you can't mean the true meaning of life and love and marriage.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am 18, and I have been 19 last summer, and during this time I learned to care for him very much. But he finally stopped coming to see me. He has come back several times since, but I have gone with other boys, but I do not care for any of them. He told me that he loved me. Do you think he does? What would you advise me to do? BLUE EYES

BLUE EYES: There is nothing you can do, my dear, but wait, and see if his friends will not ripen into love in the years to come.

Diary of a Fashion Model

She Discusses the Fringe Trimming Which Is So Much in Vogue.

WON'T you please come to lunch with me today?" said Daisy McNell when I answered the telephone this morning.

"I'll be delighted," I replied, "but what about the company?"

"I've something to show you, and that's the only time I can spare," declared Daisy, who is a costume designer. "Then I'll surely go with you," I said, as I hung up the receiver.

At one o'clock I hurried down the avenue and soon found Daisy in a charming little tearoom that we admire immensely because it is so quiet.

"What are you going to show me?" I questioned, after we were comfortably seated.

"A stunning sketch for a new dress," she replied.

"Are you going to let me use it?" I asked. "You know I'm eternally chasing new ideas," she said, as she opened her portfolio.

"Oh!" I exclaimed as she showed me a water color drawing of the frock which is illustrated. "What's stunning?"

"Do you really like it?" questioned Daisy, a slight note of apprehension in her voice.

"I surely do," was my answer, as I studied the picture.

"No good, because you see it's one of a series I'm designing for a new play where modern dress is desired," said Daisy.

"Well, I'm sure this will meet all requirements. Now tell me something about the materials you are going to use for it," I requested.

"Navy blue serge is the basic fabric. It is to be worn by a young girl, and I think that material is always youthful, don't you?" she asked.

"I certainly do, and if you select a fine weave it will possess even greater suppleness," I remarked.

"Yes, that's what I had decided to do. Now, before I tell you more about the materials, I want to ask your opinion of the dropped shoulder line," said Daisy.

"It's very good, especially when united with this style of bodice," I answered.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Friends and Dogs

Copyright, 1921, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

"You cur!" says the hero in the melodramas, when he addresses the villain.

"He's a regular dog"—that's what we say sometimes when a man has disgraced his friends by his cowardice or his dishonesty or his treachery.

What a misuse of words—what a strange misunderstanding of the truth.

If I had a friend who was as faithful as a dog, as courageous as a dog, as honest as a dog—I would feel myself blessed indeed.

Such friends I have, and I thank my lucky stars for them by night and my lucky sun by day. I wouldn't exchange them for all the diamonds and emeralds and rubies in King Solomon's Mine.

I wouldn't give one the pressure of the hand from a faithful friend for all the fame and all the glory the world has to bestow. I wouldn't trade the faith of one simple, loving heart for all the homes in all the palaces in all the lands beneath the sun.

Genius, great gifts of mind or of body, not even the gift of song—and that, it seems to me, is the greatest that can be bestowed upon a mere human being—none of these things would I trade for the faithful, disinterested love of a true friend.

And—whisper—I'd rather look into the eyes of my good old dog than to smile into the face of the most brilliant flatterer who ever lived.

Who are you? Where did you come from? Who was your grandfather? Why did he marry your grandmother? Was she a beauty or an heiress, or even both?

Your Dog Doesn't Care

What kind of a disposition have you? Can you laugh when your heart aches? Can you smile and hold up your head and look the world in the face when you feel as if you wanted to creep away somewhere and hide yourself and die?

Are you always good-humored, light-hearted, ready for a frolic? Are you a conservative or a reactionary, a modern or a mid-Victorian? Do you believe in signs? What do you think of spirit-rapping? Did you ever see a ghost, or hear one?

Are you clever or dull, stupid or brilliant, fascinating or a dunce? He doesn't care—your dog.

Not for one of these things does he care.

All he knows is you are you—and he loves you, and he'll follow you to the ends of the earth, and fight for you with his last breath, and crawl to your feet and try to lick your hand when he is dying himself—that's all.

I wonder where the President's dog went visiting—and who it is that he likes better than the President?

EVERYBODY loves an old-fashioned flower bed. Even if the bed is discolored in a modern garden there is a charm and sweetness about it which is not entirely due to the flowers that grace its confines.

Perhaps the memory of some other dear garden makes the clove pinks doubly sweet, and the lemon verbenas unusually potent. Various colored verbenas, delicate heliotropes, phlox and iris seem in perfect harmony with the rose geraniums.

Gardens of olden times were not planted merely for ornamental beauty. The flowers were picked and arranged artistically, too. Day lilies were put in bowls of wet, white sand, sprays of bleeding hearts drooped over the edge of tall, slender vases, while deep saucers held fuchsias in a riot of coloring. No garden was complete without an oleander, regardless of the fact that the dainty pink blossoms were sometimes difficult to woo to perfection.

In fixing up an old-fashioned garden bed we should try to have a border of box.

If the bed is placed where a hedge is the background or a vine-covered wall, plant tuberoses and gladioli at the back. In front of this plant phlox and iris, reserving the very front line for the clove pinks. The latter have to be taken up and separated every two years.

An old-fashioned idea was to have a beautiful garden, wherein all the beds were square and each was planted with flowers of one cast of coloring. For instance, the purple bed had purple iris, widdows' tears, orchids, heliotropes, purple verbenas and purple gladioli.

YOUR HEALTH

What "Pink Eye" Really Is and What to Do About It

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Commissioner of Health, New York City

ALL forms of eye inflammation, especially those affecting the eyelids and the visible portions of the eyeball, are annoying, because they mar the beauty of the patient. The eyes are the most conspicuous feature of the human face. They attract or puzzle or repel. If they are bright and shining, if the whites are clear and if the lids are free from scales and redness, the eyes are apt to be attractive. But if the lids and the whites of the eyes are red, even the casual observer experiences a feeling of repulsion.

In conjunctivitis, or "pink eye," this redness of lids and eyeball will be noticed at once. When the lower lid is pulled gently away from the eyeball, it will be seen that swimming in the excess of tears are bits of flakes of mucus. In the morning the eyelids are glued together by the hardened secretion.

The redness may be bleached out temporarily by the use of adrenalin chloride. Thirty drops of a one-to-one-thousand solution may be dropped into the eyes every hour or two.

If the trouble doesn't clear up speedily or if the pain and redness increase the doctor should be consulted. One cannot afford to take chances with the precious eyes.

Little Pain.

In uncomplicated conjunctivitis there is little or no pain. There may be some smarting and burning, a feeling of heaviness and possibly slight sensitiveness to light. Bad as the eyes look, the cause is little suffering.

The degree of pain any inflammation may cause depends to a considerable extent upon the firmness or elasticity of the structure involved. If it is in the covering of a bone, due to a bruise of some sort, there is great pain, because the tissues are unyielding, and, as a result, the sensitive nerves are pinched and utter their protest.

The mucous membrane lining the eyelids and covering the white part of the eyeball is loose and soft. There must be a lot of swelling to take up all the slack, so to speak. Consequently, there is little pain in inflammation of these tissues in conjunctivitis or "pink eye."

Such an inflammation of the eye is due to the sort of infection. There are several germs which may be the cause of it, and the rapidity and severity of the inflammation depend upon the form of germ which one may "pick up."

Certain forms of conjunctivitis are communicable, and may be passed on from one person to another. Such varieties of conjunctivitis are called "pink eye."

"Pink eye" appears at certain seasons and may attack every child in a school. The discharges are left by the touch of the victim upon the doorknobs or on the book or on the hand. They are taken by the hands of another, and by wiping the eyes are conveyed to the eyes.

Cleanliness is of first importance. Plain water may be used, or a solution of boracic acid, five grains to the ounce. The pink eye is the best local remedy is a solution of zinc, one grain to the ounce. A little of this should be dropped into the eyes three or four times a day.

Good Night Stories

WRIGGLY WORM LEARNS SOMETHING NEW.

DADDY BUG!" cried Mr. Wiggly Worm as he tried to get around the little brown roots. "Will these never be an end?"

"As and to what?" laughed a merry voice, and the little brown root shot out another slender arm and caught hold of the soft dirt. "End to what, Wiggly?"

"Why, to your stupid roots!" replied Wiggly Worm very crossly. "I'm hungry. He had become mixed up in them, and every way he crawled, the roots hit him in the face."

"Did like to get up to the top of the ground. I'm sick of living down here with such common folks," he said as he pushed the roots away and tried to brush off his little gut.

"It must be dreadful always to live underground as you plants do!" he snapped. "But I suppose it's best, for I must admit you're not a pretty sight!"

Of course, Wiggly Worm never knew very young worms, and didn't know what he was talking about. But, like a great many folks, after listening to other people talk about their own adventures on the world above ground, Wiggly Worm thought he knew it all, and tried to make others think so, too.

But the little brown root, "you're going up above ground I suppose you'll have a heart of gold like I'm to have. My how lovely it will be!"

"Look at yourself or you'd never make such a remark I'm sure," and Wiggly Worm wriggled first one way then another, laughing heartily.

"Well, we can't all be beautiful," she said kindly. "But I guess if we're just as plain as you are, that's too funny for words! Who ever told you you'd have a heart of gold? It only goes to prove you've never had a chance to look at your own roots!"

"A heart of gold? Oh, that's too funny for words! Who ever told you you'd have a heart of gold? It only goes to prove you've never had a chance to look at your own roots!"

"That's right!" exclaimed another voice, and old Daddy Bug opened his eyes and yawned. "Of course, we can't always see the heart of gold, but we can feel it if it is good and kind."

Wiggly Worm crawled up above ground for the first time.

And I do believe I saw yours this very day, little root.

The little root was so happy that the sap bounded through her slender stems. Wiggly Worm looked at the roots and said, "I'm glad to see you, little root. I've been waiting for you to come up here for the first time, and there, nothing in the glorious sunlight, were a crowd of beautiful, little, green-leaved children which the little brown roots had sent up into the world. And in the very center of their cluster nestled a beautiful golden blossom, the little brown root's heart of gold."

And the little children who visited the meadows crested with green when they played the golden blossom and named her "dandelion"—the golden heart of the flower children.

WORDS OF WISE MEN

Self-love exaggerates our faults as well as our virtues.

Think like the wise, but talk like ordinary people.

An importunate demand comes from perfect patience.

We do willingly nothing that is troublesome. But consider the converse—nothing is troublesome that we do willingly.

If a man be gracious and courteous to strangers it shows he is a citizen of the world, and that his heart is no island set off from other lands, but a continent that joins them.

The strongest friendships have been formed in mutual adversity.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 4

With the preponderance of astral influences making for active and progressive conditions this should be a day of accomplishment. With Mars as the dominating figure, both by mutual and lunar aspect, all affairs should react to his energizing and powerful stimulus. It is an aggressive force urging to enterprise, courage and the spirit of bold venture. The fortunate influence of Mercury may be accentuated by his operation in domestic, social and romantic affairs the rule is also auspicious.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of success and achievement, and their domestic and affectional matters should prosper. A child born on this day will be quick, vigorous, clear, enterprising, and will succeed in life because of its marked and aggressive characteristics, as well as through its talents.

That Case Has Been Settled.

man who called upon Webster and paid him one hundred dollars as a fee to place another year for him. The man returned to his place of business, he discovered that during his absence his partner had settled the case out of court. He began to regret his one hundred dollars, so he sent a messenger to Webster.

"Mr. Webster," said the young man, "my employer thinks you should return a part of your retainer. That case has been settled."

"Young man," Webster said, "you go back and tell your employer that a retainer is something to be retained."

NO STUDIO FAKE BUT REAL SEA-GOING YACHT PICTURES IN "HER FIRST ELOPEMENT"

Cruising for a week on summer seas is the kind of work lots of people are looking for. And it did prove the most pleasurable part of filming "Her First Elopement," the new Wanda Hawley picture which Sam Wood completed in August at the West Coast Reelart studio.

"Her First Elopement" is a breezy tale of summer-time yachting and romance. It was possible to film the interior scenes in the studio but for real "atmosphere" a truly luxurious private vessel was needed.

But there a difficulty was encountered. Plenty of private yachts swarm the Pacific Coast—but in the summer time the owners themselves want to use them. It took a long search to find one suitable, but at last a San Francisco millionaire came to the rescue. He, too, wanted to use his yacht—but he is a movie fan and invited the whole company to come aboard, provided he could watch them work.

Needless to say, Director Sam

Wood snapped at the chance. The company set out to sea and in a week of perfect California days secured a vampire who looks enviously at that lad's inheritance. At the same time Christiana Elliott is trying to lend aid to her kid cousin in his affair with the same grasping chorus lady, who is "playing both ends against the middle."

Of course, Fate arranges things so that Adrian meets Christiana in a way that makes him mistake her for the "vamp." A little yacht party cut into the Sound is his idea of compromising the young lady and thus disillusioning his brother. But instead he finds that he, himself, is in exceedingly hot water when his passenger turns out to be anything but the "vamp" he planned to kidnap!

"Her First Elopement" comes to the Strand Theater today for a three day run.

Rialto Theater

"Oh, Daddy."

A real hearty laughable comedy is "Oh Daddy" which will be here Saturday night, May 7, at the Rialto theater. This play is replete with joyous laughs, humorous complications and absurdly funny situations of some 20 musical numbers are an additional attraction. The musical selections are all the latest successes and are sung by a company and chorus with unusually fine voices.

The magnificent gowns worn by the principals and chorus are real creations designed by the great Lester, the man modiste who designs the extensive wardrobe of Eva Tanguay and many other high class artists and is said to be the wonder and envy of all woman-kind. Seat sale Friday, 9 a. m.

Do you remember "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight?" And "Rufus Rastus Johnson Brown?" And "Mandy" And all the rest of the famous coon songs that used to fill our souls with surcease and delight in the old days? And where did you hear them—that is, hear them with the most relish?

Where, but at the old minstrel show! The American minstrels is an institution that the amusement loving public will never die. It fills a soft spot in our hearts, a responsive longing that no other form of theatrical entertainment can satisfy. That is why Al. G. Field and his minstrels are so popular.

They give the American public just what it wants and in satisfying measure. Theatrical statistics for last year—and the year before that and before that, too—show that the Al. G. Field Minstrel appeared to a larger number of people from the beginning to the end of the season, than any other production on tour. Mr. Field will tell you that it was a rare instance when a single seat was left vacant at a performance. Indeed, the records show that persons were turned away at virtually every performance for lack of seating accommodations.

Mr. Field has a truly splendid show this year, excelling even the best of his productions of recent years. Bert Swartz, king of black face comedians, past and present, heads the cast. Harry Shunk has been added to give further repletion to the fun and frolic of the entertainment, and the company includes such other comedy favorites as John Healy, whose Parson and Ol' Black Joe are classics of many others. In the list of songsters de luxe are William Church, Jack Richards, Harry Frillman, Leslie D. Berry, Dolt Kastor, John Cartmell, Grover Schepp, Reo Brodeas and L. B. Puckett and among the dancers are such favorites as William Doran, Leo Doran, Frank Miller, Vincent Dixon, Ed. Ewald, Jimmie Cooper, Sherman Derr, Garner Newton, Ed. Uhrig, Harry Young and Billy Miller.

The production this year includes such novel features as a laughable burlesque on the national political conventions, with clever impersonations of statesmen and politicians of prominence; a comedy scene with the famous international yacht races for a background, with the British challenger, Shamrock IV, and the American defender, Resolute, prominently featured; a holiday on Rumpus Ridge, The Arkansas Traveller, Henri Neiser in his mystifying Human Spider specialty and other acts of equal interest and novelty. The minstrels will be at the Rialto theater one night only, Monday, May 9. Seat sale Saturday, 9 a. m.

AMERICAN
ALL-STAR CAST TO SUPPORT DEHAVENS IN "TWIN BEDS"
Claimed to Be Costliest Play Ever Produced for Screen Use

There are several points of unusual interest concerning the film version of the wholesome bedroom farce, "Twin Beds," which Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven have transferred to the screen and which comes as the latest Associated First National attraction to the American tomorrow.

In the first place, the play by Margaret Mayo and Salisbury Field is said to be one of the costliest ever purchased for screen use and a vast amount of money has been expended by the director in order to make the production adequate.

In choosing the company to support the DeHavens the greatest care was used, with the result that the production has a very nearly all-star cast.

With William Desmond in the role of the Jealous Mr. Hawkins, and Helen Raymond, the English comedienne, who created the role of Signora Monti in the London stage production, playing that part and with such favorites as Katherine Lewis, Lottie Williams and William J. Irving, it is no wonder the production bids fair to fulfill all that has been claimed for it as one of the season's big successes.

To Fight Deathbed

Will of Aged Husband

Mrs. Cecil Ready Oyster, twenty-six, whose seventy-two-year-old millionaire husband, George M. Oyster, added a deathbed codicil to his will revoking the generous provision he had made for her. Mr. Oyster was a resident of Washington, D. C. The wedding of the couple last January was the culmination of a New York State fair romance last September. It is expected the widow will make a hard fight for the fortune snatched away from her by the deathbed codicil.

FORCEFUL LETTER OF REV. DAMRON

RECOMMENDS NERV-WORTH HIGHLY

Proctorville, Ohio, Minister's Letter
Tells Impressive Story of Benefits Received by Himself and His Wife.
"My nerves were so racked that I could not sleep until after midnight, and I would almost jump out of bed," said Rev. Damron in a letter written some time ago. "After taking half a bottle of Nerv-Worth, I could sleep almost as well as when I was a boy. My wife had rheumatism in her hip joints so that she could not stoop down and rise up without help, and her system was run down and she was not able to do any work without great pain. After taking two bottles of Nerv-Worth, the rheumatism had disappeared, and her blood is as good as when she was a child, and she weighs more than she has for 20 years. I recommend Nerv-Worth as the greatest remedy that I have ever found. I cannot praise it as it deserves." The above is but one of many weighty statements from one of the ministry. Such statements offer the most conclusive proof, and nothing further by way of explanation need be added to them. Give Nerv-Worth a trial, and if your first trial bottle does not prove satisfactory, your money will be refunded. Be sure to get the genuine in the large bottle. Sold by all leading druggists everywhere. W. W. Phillips, Advrt.

AUTOMATIC BEACONS.

(International News Service.)
LONDON, May 3.—The ancient figure of romance, the lighthouse keeper, is soon to be replaced by automatic machinery.

Some of the more famous lighthouses are already equipped so automatically that they will work themselves and can be left unattended for twelve months.

The new system is claimed to be more reliable than even the keepers, and it is said that even if one of the acetylene gas mantles gives out or becomes damaged another moves automatically into position.

The "sun-valve," now to be installed, is an apparatus sensitive to light. As soon as daylight gives place to dusk this valve is actuated and the lights come on in the morning, by a reverse action, the light sensitive valve duly turns them off.

TO IMPROVE CLINTON AVENUE

LORAIN—A resolution declaring it necessary to improve East 29th street from Clinton avenue to Palm avenue by grading and paving, was passed by city council last night.

"HOT COALS."

LORAIN—Patrolman Edward Sage is a real fellow!

A few weeks ago a fireman reported Sage for sleeping on duty.

In face of that report, Sage yesterday reported a fire in a store at 913 Broadway, and on his report at Central station is the following sentence:

"A serious fire was prevented by the excellent work of the firemen."

GRAFTON

GRAFTON—Mr. Stolzenberg, of Adgeville, was in Grafton, Friday night and part of Saturday.

David Wooding and family came from Elyria, Saturday afternoon to visit Mr. Wooding's parents.

Mrs. Gooden, of Elyria, visited relatives in Grafton, Saturday.

Chester Hastings, of Cleveland, was the over-Sunday guest of his sister, Mrs. Lucy Wendenheiser.

The Senior girls of the R. E. Sunday school will hold a bake sale Saturday, May 12th, at the Blue Front store.

Mr. Meinke, of Elyria, was a recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Dimke.

Mr. and Mrs. Coy Neff are moving this week into Mrs. Clara Jones' home on Main street.

ELYRIA SOCIETY

LADIES' NIGHT A HUGE SUCCESS

ELYRIA—The ladies of the Country club very delightfully entertained the gentlemen at a card party and dance on Monday evening at the club house. Over fifty-five were present and five hundred and bridge were played. Awards for five hundred were won by Mr. Kimmel of Medina and Mrs. H. A. Crandall, and those for bridge by Mrs. L. B. Fauver and Henry Calvert.

UNUSUAL CO-ED PARTY PLANNED

ELYRIA—A very interesting meeting was held by four Alumni girls of the Federation in Y. W. C. A. parlors last night and the outcome of this little meeting was the decision or rather the furthering of a decision to hold a co-ed party on Thursday of the last week in May. The girls wished to have this party somewhat different from anything else so they planned to have it out of doors. The spacious lawn of the Y. W. is therefore going to be a beautiful scene and if all comes true that the committees in charge are planning for, these "peppy" young girls and their boy friends are more than liable to have the best of good times. Miss Opal Waldron, the president, has a general charge, which is enough as surance that everything will run smoothly. The decorating chairman is Miss Catherine Schuener and refreshment committee is in charge of Miss Louise Smith, while the games will be planned for by Miss Phyllis Duckett. Miss Ruth Nelson is the able chairman of the ticket committee and with these jolly girls taking care of everything the party is sure to be a success. Another scheme which is sure to be the drawing card is the little playlet which two of the girls are planning. They expect to write the scenario themselves and the girls will then enact the movie in regular style. These girls do not very often come out with anything so much in detail but when they do as on this occasion, all can plan for a good time.

Wesleyan Circle Has Fine Meeting

ELYRIA—A large and enthusiastic crowd of girls of the Wesleyan Circle met at the home of Miss Florence Fuller, 1336 East avenue Monday evening. In the business meeting the report of the membership committee stated that in the membership campaign recently put on, Mrs. Wood's side won, having brought in ten new members, making the total number enrolled fifty-one. The mite boxes of which only half have yet been turned in already amount to twenty-two dollars. The girls are urged to bring in the rest of the quilt pieces for the comfort to be sent to a Southern home. The devotions were in charge of Miss Oliver Grobe. The program was in charge of Mrs. Winters who conducted a questionnaire and current events in which many of the girls took part. After the program a social hour was held when refreshments were served. The closing meeting of the year will be a picnic, June 6th in charge of Mrs. Ralph Wood. Miss Alice Grobe and Miss Halcyn Lockard.

Vesper Services Much Enjoyed

ELYRIA—The vesper services which are being held at the Y. W. C. A. by the secretaries and the girls are proving to be a huge success. Sixteen were in attendance at the one held on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and Miss Robinson, Federation Girls' secretary had charge of the program and proceedings. All joined in singing several hymns after which the afternoon "was in charge of Mrs. Frank Wilford, who gave a most interesting talk upon the women of the Bible and showed in her depictions of the famous well-known and loved characters of the Bible, that she was very familiar and well versed in the knowledge of the Book. When her little talk came to an end, all showed their appreciation and seemed very desirous of hearing more. Mrs. Wilford will certainly be made most welcome by the "Y" girls at any of their meetings from henceforth and evermore. Afternoon tea and dainty refreshments ended a very pleasant afternoon of pleasure and congenial companionship.

Young People Organize Chess Club

ELYRIA—A very interesting meeting was held last night at the home of Miss Marie Mueller of West avenue at which eight young people were present. These eight have become very interested in the game of chess though some know very little about it. Last night's meeting was the beginning of a Chess Club at which some laws and parts of the constitution were drawn up. The first meeting was primarily spent in helping those new to the game and several games were played.

While creating a social meeting and diversion the game will also tend to develop certain points in one's character so it is entirely worth while. For the present at least the meetings will be held every Monday night at the homes of the club members. At this meeting the final plans and the election of officers will take place. Those who were present last night are to be the charter members and will escape the initiation it is planned to make new members go through.

The young people present were the hostess, Doris Todd, Marceline Ketchum, Dorothy Bell, John Smith, George Houserman, Bradford Stetson, Harold Schwinn, Martin Mueller.

Culture Club to Lunch at 'Y'

ELYRIA—The members of the Culture club will meet at the Y. W. C. A. on Thursday of this week at 12:45 where a luncheon will be served at 1:00 o'clock. Departing from their usual custom of a program prepared with much study and depth of thought, the ladies will take this opportunity to "rest a bit, jest a bit and joke a bit in season." Responses—An amusing incident from my past. Story—Mrs. John Bath. Exchange of thought. Music and current events

ONE HUNDRED GATHER ON GOLDEN WEDDING DAY

RIDGEVILLE—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Meyers celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, May 1. Mass was celebrated at the French Creek Catholic church when Mr. and Mrs. Meyers were married fifty years ago. Father Trap, formerly of Ridgeville, now of Cleveland, was celebrant. Father of French Creek was deacon and Roman Bascher sub-deacon. After this service more than one hundred friends and relatives gathered at the home of the couple and spent the day with them, wishing them many more years of life together. Mr. and Mrs. Meyers have been residents of Ridgeville for many years and the entire community join in extending best wishes.

JUDGE WEBBER TO ADDRESS PARENT-TEACHER

ELYRIA—The Gates Parent-Teachers Association will hold its regular meeting on tomorrow afternoon in the Gates school auditorium immediately at the close of school. A fine program has been planned and it is hoped that all members who can will be present. The entertainment is as follows: Vocal solo, Mrs. Gregory; reading, Mrs. R. H. Richard; vocal solo, Miss Ethel Regal; Address, Judge A. R. Webber.

GARFORD PARENT-TEACHERS TO ELECT OFFICERS

ELYRIA—The Garford Parent-Teachers Association will hold its regular meeting at the school building immediately at the close of school on Wednesday afternoon. This is to be an important business meeting as it is near the end of the school year and the election of officers will take place. All members who possibly can are urged to be present.

PARTY CELEBRATES TWO BIRTHDAYS

ELYRIA—Mrs. P. E. Knapp of Kenyon avenue delightfully entertained yesterday in honor of her mother, Mrs. Haven of North Ridgeville, and of her little son, James Knapp. Covers were laid for ten and in the center of the table was a large vase of American Beauty roses. The afternoon was spent in a quiet way and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The guests wishing Mrs. Haven and her grandson many more such happy birthdays.

Y. M. C. B. C. HOLD DANCE

ELYRIA—The Young Men's Business club will hold a dance in the Elks' hall on Friday evening to which all members and their friends are cordially invited. Johnson's orchestra of Cleveland will furnish the music for the occasion and as all know this is one of the best, if not the best, that can be afforded any entertainment.

Y. W. C. A. ACTIVITIES

Tuesday
ELYRIA—The girls of the Federation for their regular meeting and supper at 8:00 o'clock and the hiking class, for its first hike.

Thursday
The Culture Club for luncheon with plates laid for fifty members.

Friday
Junior Friendship Club will meet after school in the Camp Fire room. Senior Friendship Club for cabinet meeting and supper at 5:00 o'clock. The members of the Home Economics of the Civic Club at 2:00 o'clock.

Saturday
On this day in the gym the Girl Reserves are to give an old fashioned party at 2:00 o'clock.

JUDGE WILCOX TO ADDRESS DEPARTMENT

ELYRIA—On Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock the Association Executive Committee will hold its meeting at the parlors of the First Congregational Church.

At 3:00 of the same afternoon the Association Home Department of the church will hold a meeting for all the members and friends. The speaker of the afternoon will be Judge H. C. Wilcox of the Probate Court, Elyria. His subject is to be "The Girl, the Home and the Juvenile Court." His experiences in the Juvenile Court, his observation of the sources and occasions of delinquency among girls and his essentially Christian attitude toward this subject qualifies him to speak with authority. The parlor should be filled to hear him.

EXTRA SPECIAL AT RIDGE SCHOOL MEETING

ELYRIA—The committee in charge of the Parent Teachers Association of the Ridge Street school wish to make further announcement to the mothers of Elyria regarding the speaker, Miss McNab of Cleveland who is to be with them at the meeting on Wednesday at 3:30 o'clock. This young woman shows remarkable talent and knowledge of the care of children and her talk will take up the subject of Mal-Nutrition and How to Overcome It and show illustrations her address with lantern slides. This is sure to prove most interesting besides being a great help to mothers and thus a special invitation is extended to the mothers of Elyria to avail themselves of this opportunity to gain some knowledge and understanding of the subject.

MUSICAL REVUE IS MAY EVENT

ELYRIA—A coming Musical event that is sure to be pleasing is the "Fads and Fancies" revue which is to be staged by the Daughters of Isabella. The rehearsals are reported to be progressing in fine shape and those participating are showing an unusual amount of interest. Instant tells them, so it seems, that this is to be a very successful affair and every effort is being expended to make of this musical act the best and snappiest that has ever been offered. Tickets for the affair, which is to be shown at the Bialto theater on May the seventeenth and eighteenth may be obtained from the members of this organization and it is urged that those wishing to procure a good seat should plan to attend at once.

CLEVELANDER TO ADDRESS PARENT-TEACHERS

ELYRIA—The Ridge Parent-Teachers' association will hold its regular meeting on Wednesday at 3:30 o'clock in the school building. The speaker on this occasion will be Miss McNab of Cleveland who will give an interesting talk on the "Proper Nutrition for the School Child." The annual business of this association will be transacted at this time, also officers will be elected for the ensuing year. It is desired that this meeting should be largely attended as it is a most important one and very interesting.

CHURCH PLAY TO BE INTERESTING

ELYRIA—This evening at 7:45 there will be a "Guests' Meeting" of the Women's Missionary Society of the Church of Christ. Mrs. T. Robinson's Division will present the playlet, "Love's Thou Me." Many of the characters and those furnishing the music have been selected from outside the society. After the program light refreshments will be served by Mrs. Terry's Division. A social hour will be enjoyed, one of the features being an old fashioned spelling bee between the men and women. The meeting is open to all and a pleasant evening is anticipated.

MISSION SOCIETY OFFICERS ANNOUNCED

ELYRIA—The Golden Arm Mission Band will meet at the home of Dolores Finley, 236 Gates avenue on Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. The newly elected officers will assume their duties on this occasion and are the following respectively:

President, Esther Newsome; vice president, Josephine Krugman; secretary, Ruth Blauevelt; treasurer, Mildred Normando. All the members are urged to attend and a pleasant meeting is anticipated.

GARFORD PARENT-TEACHERS MEET

ELYRIA—The Garford Parent-Teachers association will meet on Wednesday at 3:15 o'clock in the school building and every one who is interested is urged to attend as this is to be a special meeting and election of officers will take place. Mayor Jones will be the speaker at this meeting and Mrs. H. H. Gregg will sing. All parents are extended a cordial invitation to attend.

CHILD WELFARE HOLD LAST MEETING

ELYRIA—The Child Welfare Department of the Woman's Civic Club will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 with Mrs. G. R. Allen, 606 West avenue. As this is the last regular meeting before fall, all members are requested to be present.

Chiffon Flowers Adorn Chic Hat

This smart Parisian chapeau sent by Lewis to Joseph is of milan straw. Band of chiffon flowers in "parakeet" colorings, circles the crown. A two tone satin ribbon is used as long streamer at left side.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB WILL HOLD MEETING

ELYRIA—The meeting of the Fortnightly Club will be on Thursday of this week at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. E. Brooks, 341 Third street. The theme of this meeting's program is to be a Belgian writer and some of his works. The program will be as follows:

Readings from the Life of the Bee, The Treasure of the Humble, Our Eternity—Mrs. Fauver. Recess. Readings from other writings of Maeterlinck—Miss Reedy and Mrs. Johnson.

CHAIRMAN APPOINTED AT FEDERATED CHURCH MEETING

ELYRIA—The following chairmen of standing committees have been appointed by the executive committee of the Federated Churches of Lorain County for the year beginning May first: evangelism, Rev. Charles J. Poore, First Baptist church, Lorain, missionary education, Rev. W. L. Burner, Church of Christ, Elyria; committee, Rev. L. C. Grant, First Congregational church, Lorain; social service, Rev. J. Leslie Lobingier, United Congregational church, Oberlin; finance, Rev. Frank Wade Smith, First Methodist church, Oberlin.

WEDDING BELLS RINGING

ELYRIA—A pretty home wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Smith, 126 West Bridge street, when the latter's sister, Miss Leone M. Hartman, became the bride of Mr. Ralph Scott Lyons, son of Captain and Mrs. R. J. Lyons, of West Erie avenue, Lorain. Rev. J. H. Grant, of the First Congregational church, officiated. Immediately following the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served by the bride's mother, Mrs. H. M. Andrews. Old-fashioned opsegays were the favors used and opsegays were used in decorating the home. After a short honeymoon in the East, the newly-weds will be at home to their many friends in their beautiful new home at 448 Patterson avenue, Akron, O.

TWINS CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

ELYRIA—On Saturday evening a little birthday party was held at the home of H. R. Stone on West avenue when Harry and Blaine, twins, celebrated their fourteenth anniversary. The home was prettily decorated in pink and the favors at the luncheon served later were carried out in the same color scheme. Music, games and dancing featured the evening's entertainment after which the hostess served a very delicious luncheon. The guests departed after wishing for their hosts the best of regards for the future.

CARD SOCIAL AT G. A. R.

ELYRIA—The Sons and Daughters of Liberty will hold a card social in the G. A. R. hall on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock to which the public is extended a cordial invitation to attend. These are always pleasurable events and those who are planning to attend are assuring themselves of a good time.

LA PORTE LADIES AID MEETS

ELYRIA—The Ladies Aid Society of LaPorte will meet with Mrs. Ida Burcham at Stop No. 14 on the Grafton line on Thursday afternoon of this week. A tureen dinner will be served and all members are urged to be present. Roll-call will be answered with a verse in commemoration of Mothers Day which is celebrated on this Coming Sunday.

MUCH BELOVED TEACHER WILL RETIRE AT END OF SCHOOL YEAR

ELYRIA—For the first time in many years the name of Mrs. Eleanor Symons, 324 Fifth street, fails to appear as a teacher in the public schools. After forty-four and one half years of service she has decided to retire, feeling that she has earned a rest and can afford to take it easy and follow her own inclinations for the balance of her life.

No less than three generations of Elyria youth have come under her instruction, and literally thousands of men and women of today look upon her as one of the best teachers they ever had. Coming here soon after her marriage she first taught in the A grammar grade in the old brick building that stood on Middle avenue. She has retained that grade through all her years of service, preparing students for their entry into the high school.

Every pupil received her individual attention and if they showed any inclination at all to learn, were encouraged in their work and helped to make good. Since the opening of the McKinley school she has been its principal, and on retiring Miss Lizzie Hahn of the Garford school will take her place and Miss Mantle of the Ridge school will take Miss Hahn's place.

Mrs. Symons recently passed her 70th birthday and according to the teachers' pension law of the state will be entitled to its advantages for the balance of her life. It is with a feeling of regret that the school authorities and her many friends learn of her decision to retire. She has done a wonderful work for the youth of this city, and will retire with the well earned honors that are due her, at the close of the present school year.

One of the most pleasant affairs of the season will be the May Party and dance which is to be given by the Eagles Dance Committee at their hall on Broad street next Thursday evening. Special music and program has been arranged for and a cordial invitation is extended all to attend.

YOUNGSTERS HOLD BAZAAR

ELYRIA—Many little fingers are busy at work preparing pretty and useful articles which they intend to present at a bazaar. These are the members of the Merry Workers Club, composed of nine young and eager citizens of the rising generation. They will hold a very attractive and unique bazaar at the home of Mrs. R. T. J. Martin of West avenue and all ladies and gentlemen so interested will be made cordially welcome.

Personals

John Black of the Elyria County club has returned from Barre, Vermont, where he was called by the death of his brother.

Mr. and Mrs. John Riley of Lakewood were the over Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Riley of Clark street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dowd were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Giebel of Clark St.

The many friends of Harold Robinson, son of John Robinson, of Clark street, will regret to learn that he is still very ill with typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. John Riley of Lakewood visited Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Dettman of Williams street on Sunday.

Madame Caroline Gardner Bartlett will return the first part of May to Elyria.

Mrs. Ed. Harr who has been confined to her home by sickness is able to be out again.

TIMELY HINTS

SPRAY IN TIME
Like everything else, insects are easier controlled if taken in hand early. Potato bugs can be kept away to a very large extent if the vines are inspected every day or so, the yellow eggs destroyed, and the big striped egg-laying bugs killed. Also, watch for the advance guard. A small hand sprayer and a weak solution of arsenate of lead makes quick and easy work of these very disagreeable jobs. If they spraying is done at the first signs of approaching danger, the garden can be kept entirely free. Potting bugs and worms are an expensive luxury.—Farm Life.

CONTROL WEEDS IN LAWN
The general care of the lawn is important in controlling all lawn weeds, including crab grass. United States Department of Agriculture experts say, Mowing, rolling, fertilizing and water in other words, everything which contributes to the growth of the desired grasses, will tend to exclude the weeds. Purchased manure, because of the seeds contained in it, is a frequent source of weed infestation in lawns. In sowing, the seed used should be as pure as can be obtained.

AMERICAN NEWLY RICH IN EUROPE ARE THE BUTTS OF FRENCH HUMORISTS

By NEWTON C. PARKE.

(C. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, May 3.—"The first man to be king was a poet, and the last

to rule upon this earth will,

without doubt, be an American multi-millionaire, who will buy a crown and a nation."

Clement Vautel, French humorist

sums up the conclusions of a number of French writers who have been having a lot of fun at the excesses of American millionaires.

None money is bolstering up ruined

arches in Europe.

Official announcement of the en-

agement of young William Leeds

the Princess Xenia, niece of the king of Greece, has brought out all the time-worn jokes about Chicago

work packers, who kidnaped the daughters of bankrupt dukes, much to the delight of the dukes. The French papers recount all the adventures of Anne Gould with her

sunt-husband, the marriage of

Allen Zimmerman, of Cincinnati,

to the Duke of Manchester, and numerous matrimonial alliances between American money and European titles.

Title Hunters Scarce

"We must admit that the Yankee millionaires are gaining ground rapidly," says Le Petit Bleu. "In the past they are content to marry

daughters of dukes, barons or counts whose coats of arms had at their gilt edge years ago. But since the war the American millionaire has become a valuable article of importation.

Now we learn that one of President Harding's subjects has announced his engagement with a princess—not a contraband princess of recent nobility, not one of the kind of princesses that frequent our

Paris night dancing clubs—but a real princess born in the shadow of a throne. They say that King Constantine first opposed the alliance

but that his hesitation was of short duration when he learned how much money young Leeds was bringing into the royal family."

Needed his crown repaired.

Vauntel's version is slightly different. King Constantine pondered

a moment, say Vautel and Frankly remarked:

"All right—my crown needs to be resoldered."

But, adds Vautel, there should be no objection to such alliances, provided one of the last "American kings" doesn't let his ambition run away with him and disturb Europe.

"After all," he writes, "one of these American kings of steel, or pork, or of celluloid collars is the equal either of a small or a great princess. Furthermore William

Leeds is a fine boy and that, despite the money he is taking into the adventure, it was also a love affair.

Europe may expect to see others of the same kind."

TRAINED ARSON CATS TO UPSET SAFETY LIGHTS

Famous Investigator Reveals Some of the Schemes Worked by Commercial Criminals of the Cleverest Sort

(International News Service.)

NEW YORK, May 3.—Declaring that the present period of industrial depression and the great wave of social crime which have been sweeping the country has also been accompanied by an increase of what is commonly called commercial crime, C. D. West, manager of the investigation and prosecution department, National Association of Credit men, has exposed

some of the schemes devised to defraud creditors.

"During the period of prosperity

which was enjoyed for some years past, the professional swindler was not engaged in his usual vocation

because it was easier to make money

honestly. Now that business conditions have changed the trade

crooks have returned to their old games," said Mr. West, who is one of the best-known investigators in the country. He has several nicknames, among them being "Zeph-

on," "Deacon West," "Dean West," and "Sherlock Holmes." Mr. West

has been responsible for sending more commercial crooks to jail

than any other man in America.

"While the numerous forms of social crime are well known to the public, the workings of the commercial criminals are not familiar to most persons," said Mr. West.

"The latter class deal principally with fraudulent bankruptcies, the multiplying of creditors, and often,

even, the ruining of honest merchants, as well as the defeating of the workings of the law.

Not Ordinary Pickpockets.

The commercial criminals would not pick a man's pockets they would not do a person bodily harm. Ah

no! They are far too clever for that. They are polished gentlemen,

well educated and extremely smart

devising schemes for gaining their ends.

"The man who seeks to defraud

the firms with which he is dealing on credit does his work carefully.

He secures small loans, paying the bills usually in full, then gradually increases the amount of his orders

until the sum reaches a high mark.

Then is the anticipated time for the fraudulent bankruptcy or other scheme.

"There are a great many ways

in which these criminals operate.

In bankruptcy frauds the most common methods of beating the law

are the concealment of assets, transfer of stock with the aid of a false

burglary or fire and the dishonest

claims of debts, contracted and paid

usually to relatives.

"Sometimes dishonest lawyers advise point out methods of working fraudulent bankruptcy; in some cases dishonest referees and attorneys loot bankrupt estates; occasionally corrupt politicians enter into the game and sometimes even credit

men themselves, apparently stung

by the crooks, are in reality working with the scoundrels to put the fraud across.

"Often it is necessary to contend with an organized band operating in several cities throughout the country and controlling arson and burglary gangs, shippers, receivers,

lawyers and others.

"It is the man higher up, the master mind, that we are most concerned in getting. Many of their workers are merely dupes.

"Sixteen men higher up in Chicago were responsible for the failures aggregating $300,000, of which $165,000 has already been recovered.

"In another case 28 failures have been traced to one Philadelphia

house.

Sherlock on the Job.

"While investigating a case at

Patterson, N. J., not long ago I became interested in the disappearance of a dozen satchels used for transporting animals and I decided to trace them. I found that they had been shipped to Philadelphia and then to Chester, Pa. To Chester

I went to the home of the man's father, whom I found to be apparently interested in cats.

"But upon further search I discovered the reason. The cats were being taught to fight lamps and when their training was completed

they were sold for $250 each.

"Thus when a man wanted a fire

in his store, all that was necessary

was for him to purchase one of these animals and leave it in his store with a lighted lamp, the go-home and go to bed, assured that while he slept the cat would knock over the lamp and his shop would be destroyed by fire.

"The setting of fires in a store,

however, does not aid bankrupts in getting insurance for the insurance money is paid to creditors. The purpose of the fire is to cover up

the removing of the goods or the concealment of assets. And while insurance is being paid for a fire in one city, often the same articles are being used in another city to stock

another prospective failure or are being sold for profit, having generally cost their possessors nothing

because of the manner in which large credit concerns have been beaten out to their bills.

Tale of the Bucket of Lard.

"Some time ago I secured an indictment of a man from the East

Side of New York who had one of the finest schemes for setting fire that I have ever encountered. He was head of an arson gang which specialized in setting fires wherever and when ever desired.

"He would set a candle in the center of an ordinary lard bucket,

pack the top of the cover around the candle with cotton and then

around the outer edge of the place

little sticks stringing twine or thread around these posts or at regular intervals would suspend little sacks filled with gasoline on the string.

"Then, having a study of the length of time required for a candle

to burn down and of the various sorts of candles, he would light the candle and could go away with the exact knowledge of the time at which the fire would occur.

The candle would heat the gasoline and cause a strain, and then when the cotton was ignited the gasoline would explode with such force that the pieces would be blown

to all parts of the room and no evidence could be found.

Black Douglas of Mulsters.

"I have 110 men under indictment waiting trial," Mr. West concluded proudly, "and I expect to have 200 before the fiscal year ends, in four months. I figured if I got 63 indictments in a year I would be doing fine work, an average of one a week, but already I have more than doubled that figure.

"I have 27 men working under me, and I handle about thirty cases

a month. They are specially trained for this work, and have a knowledge of business methods and law.

One of them speaks nine languages.

An ordinary detective could not do

the work because he would not have the special knowledge and training

which it requires."

Mr. West who is known as the

"Sherlock Holmes of commercial crime," has already been engaged in this sort of work and would not change positions with any man. He has been in the department for about 17 years and previous worked for the railroad of the west under Jay Gould, rising to the position of chief of the railroad secret service.

LORAIN HI TRACK TEAM FEELS ASSURED IT WILL BEAT OBERLIN

LORAIN—Honors of the Little Big seven track tournament to be held at Oberlin should easily go to the local High school this season. As a result of the recent track meet with the Sandusky High school cinderpaths the Washington avenue speeders showed that championship form that has brought home the laurels to the local High school for the past years. It was easily seen that the Sandusky boys were living up to the reputation they acquired in the past week or that the Lorain High school contingent was exceptionally good. It will be recalled that the Sandusky team won first place in only one event and tied for another. Nevertheless the event that marked their first was significant of a record that will stay for some time. Kelley ace of the Bay city aggregation, proved that he is the only worthy athlete on the Sandusky High school track squad. He broke the standing record in the 880 yd run and it is expected that his mark will stand for some time. The Lorain cinder path artists will journey to Sandusky for a return meet next Saturday where they will enter a triangular meet with Sandusky and Fremont. Lorain should prove the winner in this classic. Fremont, it is understood, is exceptionally good in the weight event but weak in runs and Sandusky will pull one first place with Kelley. So the paper does favor Lorain as the easy victor. Larry Grant, who has proven himself to be the best 440 yard runner ever turned out at the local school should have little opposition from either of the representing teams. Larry is just a Freshman at High school and he should better his mark by several seconds before his exit from the Washington avenue institution. In his first record established by Manfred Snow in 1912, and it looks as though he will set a better mark before the season is over. Grant is also coming into the limelight as a sprinter in the short dashes. Under the tutelage of Coach Collins he has made rapid strides and he may land a regular berth as a member of the 100 yard dash contingent in the meet next Saturday. After the meet at Sandusky next Saturday the local speeders will try their efforts against the Elyria track artists at Elyria the following Saturday. Several other meets are now under discussion by Coaches Daniels and Collins.

HART TO MEET CHRISTIANO IN AKRON BATTLE

LORAIN—Alex Hart, star ace local lightweight, will continue his fight efforts when he will accept Bud Christiano of Buffalo as the opposition in the main go of an all star card at the Armory in Akron on May 17. With Christiano comes a record that places that youth in a high rating among fight aspirants. Hart has been making wonderful strides in the hit and miss game for the past few months and he should have little trouble in reversing the efforts of this Buffalo flash.

WILLARD IN DOUBT AS TO WINNER OF BIG BOUT

(International News Service.) NEW YORK, May 3.—Jess Willard, former world's heavyweight champion, has formed no definite opinion regarding the probable winner of the Dempsey-Carpentier battle at Jersey City July 2. In a communication to International News Service today from his home in Lawrence, Kansas, the ex-champion declined to put himself on record as to who will be the victor.

The former champion is confident of one thing "that Dempsey will not consent to meet him if he beats Carpentier. This is made evident by the fact that Willard did not mention the proposed Labor day bout between himself and Dempsey, or Carpentier, should the Frenchman win the title. "I was signed up to box Dempsey last spring, as you know," he continued, "but he and Kearns ran out of the match. I haven't time to bother with them any more. They were very lucky the other time and could never be induced to box me again."

Willard added that in his opinion Jack Johnson would be a great card in a return to the ring if matched with a member of his own race.

BREAKS BONE IN FOOT IN BASEBALL BATTLE

ELYRIA — Clarence Osborne, driver of the No. 1 ladder truck in the city fire department, had one of the bones of his right foot broken just below the ankle in a practice baseball game at Riverview park Sunday afternoon. The injury was sustained while in the act of sliding into a base. Osborne was taken to his home at Columbia Station by Fireman Emil Mielke and George Bair.

MODIFY ELIGIBILITY RULES

WOOSTER—A modification of eligibility rules at Wooster college, granted by the faculty, is considered the biggest victory for athletes at this institution in recent years. Instead of requiring a stipulated number of credit points to determine a student's eligibility for athletics, the rule in the future will be that a student must keep up with his class, and if they, at any time, fall back, they can be reinstated by overtaking their class.

Unless they undertake their class, their eligibility to public activities in any semester will depend upon the acquisition of 12 credits and 12 quality points the ceding semester.

"BEATS FIVE DOCTORS" WRITES J. L. MORGAN ELMORE, OHIO

April 29, 1918, I was taken very sick. Had four doctors at different times. They didn't know what ailed me. Finally I went to a Kidney Specialist. He examined the urine and pronounced it a bad case of Bright's Disease (the kidneys). As my urine was half albumen, I asked him if he could cure me. He said "No." "No man could cure me," but gave me some medicine; but the medicine did me no good. From that time on I got worse. Then I saw a testimonial in the Toledo Blade, where Sam Yak had cured Bright's Disease. Then I bought two bottles of Sam Yak, took the medicine as directed. Before I had taken the second bottle, I saw an improvement. Then I bought a dozen bottles. I was sure the medicine was just what I wanted. I took one dozen bottles in all, and today I am a well man as to my urine, it is perfect. I don't think there is a better medicine in the world today than Sam Yak; and you are welcome to the use of this letter. Sold at J. A. Ebert's, Elyria, Ohio.—Adv.

HURBY'S WORK WORRIED

WOOSTER—Mrs. Robert Charlton, from her apartments across the street from the city hall watched her husband paint the lofty spire. When the day's work was done the wife was in a state bordering on a nervous collapse.

"For my part, I did not mind it a bit," Charlton declared.

ENTERTAINS MAIL HELPERS

DEFIANCE—When the tornado a year ago destroyed the store of Mrs. Emma Kehnast, at Brausersburg, along with 25 other buildings of that village, mail carriers from Defiance spent an entire Sunday clearing away the debris.

This year, with the store rebuilt, Mrs. Kehnast celebrated the anniversary of the mail carriers' assistance by inviting them all to a chicken dinner. Postmaster L. A. Spangler and a large group of mail carriers enjoyed the feast.

POLICE NEED TARGET PRACTICE

Recent pursuit of bandits by police officers in many cities has established beyond much chance of argument that the majority of those officers are not what could be called crack shots.

In one instance the story was related of an officer, who with others, was pursuing a bandit, of steadying his aim by leaning his gun against the side of a building. And even at that his aim was faulty.

It may be that some of the officers are good shots, but their aim is impaired either by panic or excitement. In any event they should be afforded an opportunity to improve the one and overcome the other.

Possibly few cities provide their officers with suitable target quarters or the necessary ammunition to carry out this necessary program. It would seem as if it would be a good expenditure and one that in time would provide good results to provide such place and ammunition for the purpose of steadying the officers' gun aim and getting them used to the smell of powder.

If it became generally known that police officers were good marksmen and utterly devoid of nerves which tend to upset them at critical moments, those qualities might have a deterrent effect upon the bandit gentlemen who operate so promiscuously at the present time, evidently emboldened by the knowledge that the average officer is not a A Q marksman and furthermore not very much accustomed to the smell and detonations of gun powder.

OLD STUFF MYRTLE; TRY SOMETHING NEW

There was a time when beating one's way around the globe appealed to people. That was some years ago. Nellie Bly made the trip, gained more or less fame and had a hat named after her and except now and then when she gets a little newspaper notice, Nellie has been almost entirely forgotten.

However another woman is going to try and repeat. Myrtle King of Baltimore announces that it is her purpose to hike around the world and earn her way. She expects to make the trip in five or six years. Possibly she may meet with success. Then it must be remembered that she may encounter serious obstacles in getting through Russia.

Again Myrtle must realize that it may require a small sized steamer trunk to lug around the passports which she will find it necessary to have as part of her program.

Taken all in all no one envies Myrtle her self appointed task. She could probably spend her time more profitably and to better advantage by remaining at home and performing whatever duties her station imposes.

At any rate it is an old stunt Myrtle and one that will hardly bring you any great amount of glory or fame or money to soothe your declining years.

HAVING FAITH

During his Sunday morning discourse, Rev. J. H. Grant of the Congregational church let drop the phrase or sentence, "I have faith in the things I cannot prove."

There is a world of meaning in those few words. To the Christian they bring to mind that there are things bearing upon Christian faith which cannot be proven in this world at least. To the average man it gives rise to hopes which may lead him to great heights.

Many of the pioneers of industry, enterprise and progress, which this nation has produced have gone along, striking out into virgin fields or undertaking. There was no way for them to prove that success would crown their efforts. But their faith in their own strength and ability and power to drive their firm belief in ultimate success was the keynote of their aims and ambitions.

They could only guess as to what would be reached and attained, but they were buoyed up by that abiding faith without which few people have ever been able to make a success of their own lives or the things which they have entered upon.

Faith is a wonderful thing and in the crowning events of the past and the success which has accumulated in the present is the evidence that the future holds as large a store of fruition for all who will move along with the times depending much upon faith but also upon their own perseverance.

According to statistics thus far Judge McGannon failed in his murder trial by perjury and now he is endeavoring to escape the perjury trial by illness. No one fails to admit that the former justice is a most versatile person.

Germany is receiving more consideration from the press than she accorded her erstwhile foes when they were "backs to the wall."

Elbert Hubbard

Stourbridge Fair

A Bow in Clouds

An Editorial
On Advertising

It's the rich and powerful Boaz speaking to a kinsman—1312 B. C.

"Naomi that has come again out of the country of Moab, selleth a parcel of land—and I thought to advertise thee, saying 'Buy it.'"

Boaz, who thought to advertise, proved as wise as he was rich. Naomi's land was sold, and Boaz won for his wife, Naomi's daughter-in-law, the beautiful Ruth. Thus the first recorded advertising, the Real Estate ad of three thousand years ago, proved the far-reaching force of the world's greatest power today.

But this was the same power that restored and maintained confidence after the world's first great panic—the flood. For a thousand years before Boaz's time came the words of the Creator—"I do set my bow in the clouds and it shall be for a token."

And so the Rainbow became the first outdoor advertisement.

As the brilliance of its blue, red, orange, violet, yellow, green flashed across the sky, the whole world read and understood the message of good will. Today, whenever the radiant bow set in the clouds as a sign, repeats its message, the mind turns to modern advertising with the realization that the basic principle of successful advertising still is faith and good will just as it was four thousand years ago.

The first advertising that affected commerce was at Stourbridge Fair in England in the 3rd Century. Traders from many countries attended and, as the advertisers cried their wares along the picturesque banks of the Stour River, learned for the first time what England had to sell.

The 15th Century opened the way to the message of the printed word. A handbill by Caxton offering "Eyes of Salisbury, good and chepe, if it please any man spiritual or temporal to buy," is said to have been the first printed advertisement.

But it is America to whom tribute is due for the development of printed advertising from its crude form to the artistic elaboration of today.

American advertising is the power that has made American commerce and American institutions, the wonder and envy of the entire world.

Elbert Hubbard said: "The things that live are the things that are well advertised. But it is advertising plus the perfection of product that makes advertising 'the world's greatest force.'"

The churches recognize the potency of advertising and use it to sell "white hyacinths" to feed the hungry soul—and to picture a higher life than the sordid life of merely a fight for wealth.

The government advertises to sell the brand of patriotism that caused those brave boys to send the inspiring strains of "My Country 'Tis of Thee" across the Irish waters as the Tuscania went down.

Department Store Advertising is news. News that tells the history of a tapestry of rug costing thousands, upon thousands of dollars, as well as the news of the newest colors and the correct fabrics and modish silhouette.

It has been said that a certain known merchant writes more news in a day than all the star reporters do in a week—news that the public accepts at face value, because the man not only stands back of his advertising, but puts his own personality into it, the personality that prompts the great merchant to spend $24,000 of the $24,000 he made his first day in business to advertise his policy. "Goods returnable at 100 cents on the dollar."

The policy this and other merchants paid to advertise has revolutionized trading. Now every reliable merchant in the country advertises "your money back." Buying is no longer a speculation or a chance. You buy advertised products with absolute assurance, you know that as far as it is humanly possible, the manufacturer or merchant knows that the goods are exactly as represented.

But, if for any reason, even so trifling as a one as a feminine change of mind, you want your money back, it is yours without quibble, without argument and with an apology, if there be any real grievance.

You look for "Sterling" when you buy a piece of silverware. You are pleased when you find it on silver you receive as a gift. But you give little thought as to why you can depend upon the word as a pledge of good faith.

It is well at this time to recall the Easterlings, men from the old Baltic towns—the ast—who came in their quaint ships to Britain's shores to trade. Of all the merchants who dealt with Britain in Medieval days, the money of the Easterlings was of the highest

ISLAND OF YAP, WHICH THE U. S. WANTS SAFEGUARDED

First and exclusive photographs of the Island of Yap, which is now the subject of controversy between the United States, Japan and the Allied Governments. Naval reports describe the Island of Yap as a low-lying bit of land in the Caroline Islands, a little west of Guam, an American possession in the Pacific. It is surrounded by reefs, extending not farther than a mile and a half off shore, and has two principal harbors, Rull and Tomil, easily navigated by ships in ordinary weather. There are good anchorages and boat landings. The harbor improvements have been built by the natives. There are no fortifications on the island, and the only armed force there is a small native guard. The natives are peaceful and take readily to trades taught them during the German occupation. The chief exports of Yap are copra and beche de mer, which are paid for in either goods or stone money. This stone money is a variety of pebbles of Yap's currency system. It consists of limestones, from six to twelve feet in diameter and is brought entirely from the Pelew Islands in native canoes. The shells of pearl oysters are also used as currency. Yap boasts of a number of good roads but no draught animals or artificial means of transportation. A canal, about fifteen feet wide, traverses the northern part of the island for about half a mile, affording a passage for the small boats and canoes of the natives. The illustration shows inhabitants of the Island of Yap doing a native dance at a garden party given in honor of the officers and enlisted men of the U. S. S. Supply on a recent visit to the island.

Ten Years Ago

ELYRIA—Gordon Parmelee and Ralph Lord, announced they were going to San Benito, Texas, to raise cabbage and lettuce on Elyria farm.

Announcement was made that a new theater, to be called the American, was to be erected in the rear of Elyria block with an entrance on Broad street. It was to have a seating capacity of 1200.

Acting County Clerk H. C. Wilcox went back to the practice of law when County Clerk Theodore Faxson returned from the south where he had been for his health.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce were planning a three-day business trip by trolley to towns and cities south and west of Elyria. The trip was to extend as far west as Toledo, and about 30 expected to go.

Rev. Bertha Harris, of Berea, spoke at the Second Congregational church and stirred up a hornet's nest when she declared Elyria high school girls smoked cigarettes and appeared some times as if they were drunk. Her statement was denounced by Supt. Comings.

The first legal Sunday baseball game was played at West Side park by the Garfords and the West Side Athletic club. The Garfords won by a score of 12 to 8.

COLLIDES WITH HORSE
ELYRIA—The Sanitary Baking Co. auto Lorain, collided with a horse and buggy driven by G. Zabo of Indian Hollow Road, Sunday. The damage was slight.

ABE MARTIN

Th' many friends o' Almsworth Hawk, o' Pedro, Indanny, I'll be glad t' learn that his wife has skipped out. Almsworth is an old town boy an' we are allus glad t' hear o' his good luck an' advancement. Another drawback t' prohibition—th' "settlin' em up" is allus too one-sided.

standard, 925 parts pure silver. The British Government adopted the Esterling standard as Britain's money standard. The word was later contracted to Sterling, the standard the world over for silverware today.

It is good for buyers to recall the Esterlings because there are thousands of honest "traders" today whose trade marks on a package or on a seal, signify just what "Sterling" signifies on silver—value for value received or "Goods returnable at 100 cents on the dollar."

And now, at a time when all business is looking for the power to restore buying confidence, those who sell may well think of the Rainbow's message and of the rich, wise Boaz, who thought to advertise.

WELLINGTON BRED COW
PRODUCES 19 POUNDS
OF BUTTER IN A WEEK

ELYRIA—With C. W. Horr, of Wellington, as breeder, and Peter Hahn & Sons, of Orrville, as present owner, Bawndale Model Verda Fayne, 465636, a purebred registered Holstein cow is listed as having produced at the age of two years, two months and fourteen days, the splendid seven-day record of 459.6 pounds of milk, 15.303 pounds of butterfat, equivalent to 19.12 pounds of butter.

Her 14-day record was 854.6 pounds of milk 29.381 pounds of butterfat, and 36.72 pounds of butter.

This information is gathered from Malcolm H. Gardner's "Reported Tests of Holstein-Friesian Cows," published bi-weekly at De-lavan, Wisconsin.

The Holstein cow is the farmer's cow and by the advance registry records she is demonstrating her ability as a producer of both milk and butter.

MALE STUDENTS ARE TAUGHT TO WIELD THE MERRY DISH RAG

(International News Service.) PITTSBURGH, Kan., May 3.—Dish-washing for men has been added to the curriculum of the Pittsburg Normal Training school. Dean Hattie Moore, who has installed a system in the cafeteria, by which the boys and girls who patronize it not only wait upon themselves but also are their own "dishwashers."

This plan enables the students to get their meals cheaper than they otherwise could do and at the same time gives them the opportunity to become expert "dishwashers."

Many male students attend this institution.

ILLEGITIMATE CHILDREN OF FRANCE ARE BARRED FROM PENSION GRANTS

(International News Service.) PARIS, May 3.—As a means of encouraging French parents to have more children a special bill passed in Parliament promises government aid to parents of large families. A Frenchman, the father of three children less than fourteen years old and still living, will receive an allowance of 360 francs per year at the birth of the fourth child. He will receive a further grant of 390 francs for every child born after the fourth. Parents subjected to income tax will not receive any grant. An attempt to accord these gratifications to illegitimate children was rejected to being pointed.

is a good slogan for any industry. But it is a very timely one right now for the electrical industry.

Everyone wants good electrical service and everyone will get good electrical service, but they must be shown that unless a central station or lighting company is allowed to earn on a full and proper value and not on a depreciated value that central station or lighting company cannot continue to serve in a proper and efficient manner.

Let every man who has a stake in the industry take this fact to heart and convince his neighbors and friends. Put your shoulder to the wheel and then get every one else to do likewise.

Is your family dull
in the evening, too?

SNOR-HR-UF! Father's asleep again under the dim side light. Mother turns her back on the children to get the only good light on her sewing and limits her conversation to "What did you say?" There's nothing left for the young folks but the outer fringes where light changes into darkness and happiness and contentment into gloom.

Wake up your family! Put in bright, cheery lights on the reading table, by the lounge and near the piano. Make your home a pretty place for the young folks to bring their friends. Keep them happy at all odds.

Right lights will do it—pretty fixtures—enough light.
